Saturday Market

MARKETPLACE • COMMUNITY • CELEBRATION

From Beth

We are about halfway through the season of Eugene Saturday Market. We know what it takes to get through the week. We continue to create the designs and colors that have been selling this year balancing inspiration with production methods. We know how best to pack for assuring everything gets to the Market safely. We also know what it takes to get through Saturday—how to pack and unpack the van and park at the blocks. We can get to our space and set up the booth and display.

We are also learning over days, weeks and years, how to be in public all day. It is not just our work that calls to our customer. It is also the aura we place around our booth and in each neighborhood that welcomes. We know that we have to prepare both physically and mentally to be here on Saturday. Rest and water, among other things, are tools that we use to be our best. A positive mindset, however, is probably the most important component.

Do not be surprised if something happens at the market that feels off. The essence of a public market is that it occurs in public. If it is a security or safety issue, absolutely contact staff immediately. But if it concerns policies or standards, follow up with me during the week. I promise I will follow up on issues of this kind in a careful manner.

Have a lovely Saturday.
Beth
